

From: Craig Madsen
To: 'microsoft.atr(a)usdoj.gov'
Date: 1/9/02 7:32am
Subject: FW: Microsoft Antitrust Case

> ---Original Message-----

> From: Craig Madsen
> Sent: Monday, January 07, 2002 4:42 PM
> To: 'attorney.general@po.state.ct.us'
> Subject: Microsoft Antitrust Case

>

> Dear DOJ, etc.,

>

> I am writing to put my 2 cents worth about the antitrust case against > Microsoft Corp.

>

> I feel like Microsoft is using their OS dominance to stifle every bit of > competition possible. I totally agree with the 9 states that are fighting > this thing to the bitter end. I also don't agree with the current > settlement at all. For Microsoft to spend a bunch of money for the > schools does absolutely nothing to stop them from continuing to do what > they have been doing for years -- except try to catch up with Apple, Inc.
> in the school battles!! I also don't mind spending my tax dollars to do > whatever is necessary to make them pay for what they have already done.

>

>

> We watched them 'give away' a browser and all but kill a competitor(s).
> Tomorrow they start giving away databases, and before long, who knows? If > there was a competitor to the government, they would buy them, reduce the > price on whatever they were selling to nothing and kill them off too.
> Once dead, they can raise the price back to whatever they need to.

>

> Do I want Microsoft dead? Probably not, however, I want them to have to > use the same playing field as the rest of the businesses in america that > don't control 90% of the operating system business. Break them up. Make > them give out their source code to anyone, so we could all make products > as quickly as them!

>

> p.s.

>

> I was trying to send this to: microsoft.atr@usdoj

>

> as well, but my e-mail package didn't like this. Do you know how I can > get a copy of this to them?

>

>

> Thanks,

>

> Craig Madsen

> (801)-961-3045
> 155 North 400 West
> Salt Lake City, UT 84103-1111
>